DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

The democrat of this state met in state convention at Milwaukee on Wednesday, and nominated a state ticket. It is as good a ticket as our friends, the democrats, could make. What is meant by that is that it is a respectable ticket to its persons and is as strong as a democratic ticket can be in this year of republican victories.

Mr. Morgan, the candidate for governor, is a merchant in Milwaukee, a man of fine character, successful business man and strong in his party. But he happens to run in a bad year for democratic candidates. The republican votes will be a good deal like the corn crop—a great deal to the acre—so that it is utterly impossible for any democratic candidate however popular and able, to win an election. Hoard will go in by an overwhelming majority, for two reasons, first, because hoar is immensely strong with the farmers; and second, because in this presidential year the republicans will march upon the democrats with a tread as firm and as victorious as that of Wellington upon Napoleon at Waterloo. This is unfortunate for Mr. Morgan, but it is the republican programme, and it cannot be changed.

The other nominees and their whereabouts are as follows, as reported in the Sentinel: "Andrew Kull is nominated for lieutenant-governor. He is said to live in Walworth county, and his qualifications for the candidacy are found in the circumstance that he owns some sheep, and is opposed to a tariff on wool. A. C. Larson, the nominee for secretary of state, lives in Eau Claire county, and was born in Norway. Th. Kersten, the candidate for treasurer, has been rather prominent as a local democratic politician in Calumet county, is a banker at Clinton, and has been mentioned as a candidate for congress in the fifth district. T. S. Ryan of Waukesha, for attorney-general, is adopted from the labor party ticket, and was vouchsafed for as being a straight democrat. There was some difficulty in finding a nominee for superintendent of public instruction, but Mr. Bird, of Madison, finally bethought him of a democrat who used to teach school in Walworth county, named Amos Squire, now living at Berlin, Green Lake county, and Amos was nominated. Herman Naber, Shawano county, for railroad commissioner, and E. W. Evans, of Stark county, for insurance commissioner, complete the ticket."

THE VOICE OF VERMONT.

Another Oregon affair has met the democratic party. A voice comes from the Green Mountain state and it is echoed from east to west and from north to south, saying that American industries and American workmen must be honored in this country above those of any other country on earth.

It is not at all strange that Vermont has gone republican. It has never sent any other way than republican since the party was born. But it is the manner of its going republican that attracts attention, and causes the republicans to rejoice with exceeding joy. The third-party prohibitionists worked the state as they did Oregon. They dodged the state with their peculiar documents. They sent their clerks there, and tried to make people believe that the democrats had a fighting chance to carry the state. Then the democratic managers did some earnest work in Vermont. They wanted to cut the old-time republican majorities down to a nominal figure this time so as to give the democratic party a little boom for November. The contest was made on the line of national politics. No state question came in at all. Not is Vermont much of a manufacturing state. It was the tariff and the obnoxious hypocrisies of the democratic administration that attracted the attention of the Green Mountain voters. And so the people voted as they propose to vote in all the northern states in November, and the result is that Vermont gives a larger republican majority than it has had for years. There will not be a democrat in the state senate, and only a few scattering ones in the lower house of the legislature.

Vermont has spoken well. It has spoken loud. The voice suggests the democrats. It all means that the democracy is going to fall under the burden of British free trade and false pretences.

The Sentinel says that those who heard or who have read Mr. Hoard's speech to the young republicans Tuesday night in Milwaukee, one thing was made plain—that he is a man of brains, heart and conscience. The whole tenor of the speech was exactly what the occasion called for. Its purpose was not to make votes for Hoard, but to nourish the seeds of patriotism in the young minds before us. There was the mellowness of an Emerson in many of the passages, strange enough in a political campaign, and the earnestness of a father rather than the fire of a stump-speaker. It was the work of a ripe mind and a gentle nature. There was a shrewdness in his views of politics which was as refreshing as a shower on a dusty day.

The way that the republican vote was swelled in Vermont is illustrated by such small changes as this: "Some time ago a club of Bohemian democrats with sixty members was organized in Cleveland. These men are all employed at the Cleveland rolling-mills, and last Saturday night the entire club decided to turn over to Harrison and Morton and desert the democracy. That was done and new members were enrolled, swelling the total to seventy-nine, only two of whom ever voted the republican ticket before."

How true in Cleveland's case was the statement of Allen G. Thurman made in a public address in 1872.

"My friends, you will never have any revenue reform in the civil service until you adopt the one-term principle in reference to the presidency. So long as the incumbent can hope for a second term he will use the immense patronage of the government to procure his re-election and secure his reelection."

Rabbi Moses of Indianapolis declares that, "Although the Hebrew vote was rather evenly divided in 1884 for Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Blaine, it will be cast almost unanimously for General Harrison this year. Of course, like all other classes of people, we have a few black sheep, and they will vote for Cleveland again, but fortunately they form a very weak minority."

There is less reason than ever for Mr. Cleveland to write his letter of acceptance since the old Green Mountain state has been heard from. Mr. Cleveland must be convinced by this time that the democratic ticket is not making any run at all.

The national republican committee will have St. John to stump Indiana, Connecticut and New York. He and his friends have done so well in Oregon and Vermont that they are becoming valuable republican documents.

BUILDING A NEST.

Three objects to which All the Honest Industry of Man is Directed.

The birds build their nests of sticks and straw, with much toil and instinctive skill. Every creature must have its nest, its lair, its den, and all creatures are endowed with the instinct and the ability to make just the kind of abode that is suited to them.

The nest-building instinct is given to all animals, as soon as they are reared to leave the parental nest, begin to think of getting one for themselves. But man, being the most ingenious and enterprising of all animals, creates a residence fitted to his greatness and his dignity.

Man's nest is a brown stone house, three or four stories high, elegantly furnished, and provided with all the requisites of decency and labor-saving convenience; or, it is a large, commodious farm house, with a hundred acres of land adjoining. The present generation of men, as soon as they are reared to leave the parental nest, begin to think of getting one for themselves. But man, being the most ingenious and enterprising of all animals, creates a residence fitted to his greatness and his dignity.

Col. Burr Robbins authorizes me to offer for sale his farm of 130 acres, bordering on Rock river, in the third ward of the city. Its fertility is unequalled and results from the large stock annually wintered upon it. It is but a mile from the city postoffice, and is very attractive as a home. The buildings are two dwellings, three barns, (one barn cost more than $2,000,) and accommodates 65 horses), and ample wagon houses. Also, abundance of good water. As a dairy or stock-breeding farm, it is unsurpassed. Price $11,000, with liberum of payment. G. E. Bowles.
